Natural Gas Generator - Oxygen Not Included Wiki

Natural Gas generators are a good source of power that doesn't require maintenance. It would also be a good idea to place them relatively near a Natural Gas Geyser so the pipes don't have to travel far, and that the Carbon Dioxide can be more efficiently separated and put off to the side, where it can be contained or purified. Note that the generator has a very significant Carbon Dioxide output that pretty much mandates using it with a Carbon Skimmer, a Slickster or a complex CO 2 liquefier.
